

MediSend International(R) and Four Rivers Software Systems, Inc. Collaborate to Improve International Medical Equipment Donations Through TMS

by Bigg News on October 17, 2007

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17 Four Rivers Software Systems, Inc. The leading computerized maintenance management software (CMMS) provider for the healthcare industry has partnered with MediSend International to improve and increase donations of medical equipment and supplies to developing countries worldwide.

Four Rivers has integrated the MediSend CIO 100 award winning donation software program directly into the TMS Product. This integration allows users to donate assets or equipment directly from the application. MediSend International will receive the electronic donation information and respond accordingly.

MediSend is a global non-profit supplier of humanitarian medical aid, supplies, equipment and biomedical technician training and support services to third world countries. This integration now presents them with another avenue to receive these distributions. Users will find that they have an effortless method to retire their assets and donate them to a worthy cause.

“Four Rivers Software believes in helping the international community, “noted Henry Wilde, Chairman & CEO of Four Rivers, Inc. “The integration of TMS and MediSend provides our customers with a tool to do the same.”

Nick Hallack, President and CEO of MediSend International says, “Simplifying the donation process is an example of partners working together. The collaboration between Four Rivers and MediSend will provide donors with the best resource for retiring medical equipment and supplies. Most importantly, the process will be instrumental in providing communities in developing countries with desperately needed medical equipment and supplies in the ongoing effort to improve healthcare conditions worldwide.
